Kannada Gadegalu With Explanation Pdf DownloadQ: Producer-Consumer data array with Thread I have a producer-consumer problem with a data ArrayList which contains Objects. The Producer part works perfectly fine but as soon as I want to read the data the Consumer only gets the data in the first Iteration of the loop. I think it has something to do with the Thread. The for loop at the beginning of the producer part is synchronized since the Producer needs to send a Client object to the consumer part and it will modify Client. Heres the code: class Producer implements Runnable { public static void main(String[] args) { Client client = new Client("client1"); ArrayList datalist = new ArrayList(); Thread producer = new Thread(this,"Producer",10,true); producer.start(); for (int i = 0; i < datalist.size(); i++) { datalist.add(i, new Object()); } } public void run() { while (true) { synchronized (this) { while (datalist.isEmpty()) { wait(); } Object o = datalist.remove(0); System.out.println("Produced: " + o); } } } }
