Suppose I have a list of the form: {{0.5, 1}, {1, 2}, {1.2, 3}, {0.8, 4}} How can I write a function which returns the value corresponding to the first occurrence of a numerical value? In this case the function should return the value 2. Also, is there a name for the technique of solving this kind of problem in general? A: You can use the FindSequenceFunction to get the value in position x and use SequenceCases to get the result: res = SequenceCases[{0.5, 1, 1.2, 0.8}, x_ /; NumericQ[x] > x] (* {2, 0, 3, 4} *) If your list is much longer, it might be faster to do a Full[#] & for non-numerical elements: res = SequenceCases[Full[{0.5, 1, 1.2, 0.8, {0.1, 2}, {0.2, 3}, {0.8, 4}}], x_ /; NumericQ[x] > x] or res = SequenceCases[Full[{0.5, 1, 1.2, 0.8, {0.1, 2}, {0.2, 3}, {0.8, 4}, {1., 2}, {1.2, 3.}, {1.2, 4}, {0.8, 4}], #[[2]] /; NumericQ[#[[2]]] &], x_ /; NumericQ[x] > x] A: You can do this with a recursive function that stops if it finds the desired value or starts returning the same value for future values: ClearAll[f][dims_, start_] := Function[{d}, Switch[dims, {d_, n_ 1cdb36666d

Tell HN: "The Internet Ate My Startup" - linkbubble I have been working on a startup idea on and off for a few years now, and I'm now working on a prototype of it. I have been, up until a couple weeks ago, on an idea with the assumption that I'll get a new contract to build it out. Unfortunately, my boss left our company and my new contract has been cancelled. This, combined with my lack of formal education in a lot of things, have left me in a situation where my company has no means to sustain itself and I'm out of luck if I want to work on this idea. I know everyone makes mistakes, I just wanted to share my story so you can sympathize with me when this happens. P.S. This is not an announcement for anyone to join the company, I'm just starting to search for some contacts. ===== bmelton I'm all for sympathy, but you have to lay _all_ of your cards on the table. You have work rights, and I realize you're probably uncomfortable with that, but you're not a contractor and so you have those rights _if_ you want to keep them. If you want to go full-time, get a job at a company that says 'hiring contractors only'. Or 'hiring contractors only for a specific set of functions at a company that has experience in providing contractors'. My big problem in the past has always been that I try to bypass 'getting a job' and put 'finding a co-founder' as my #1 goal, but I haven't been interested in any of the jobs I've applied for. I've found that all of them are willing to give me time off
